

Sydney Naturalists

Bioblitz

When: 14th-15th
April

Where: Ku-ring-gai
National Park

Who: Everyone!

Calling all nature-enthusiasts, twitchers, entomophiles, and everybody else:

Six months ago I set up a Sydney Naturalists Project on the online nature observation database iNaturalist. We are now past the 1000 observation mark with over 400 different species from our 30 odd members.

To mark this occasion and make this project more tangible, I hope to organise a bioblitz in Ku-ring-gai National Park on the weekend of 14th-15th April. The aim will be to record as many observations and species as possible for the project over the two days, whilst hopefully helping everyone to learn about areas of nature that are new to you (botany is still a goal for me) and meeting other like-minded people.

Please, if you are at all interested, email me at elliottconnor212@yahoo.com.au.

I hope to see as many as possible there!